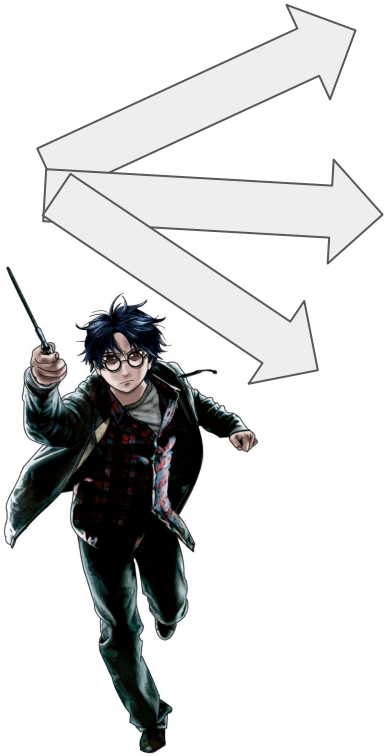
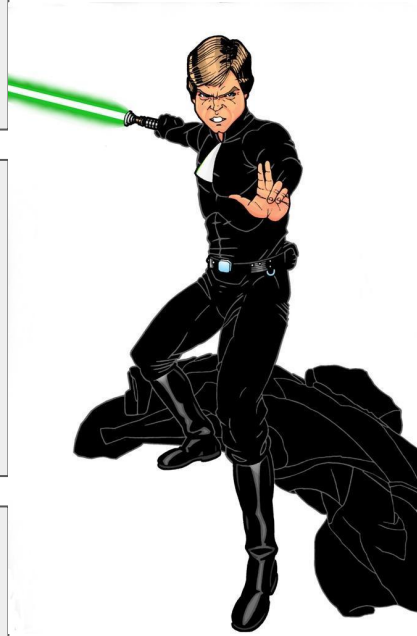
In a battle between Harry Potter and Luke Skywalker, the jedi knight will reign.

3 Reasons Luke will win:



1. The Force: Jedi Persuasion
2. The Force: telekinesis
3. Swordsmanship



Reason 1

1. The Force: Jedi Persuasion

Fact/Example/Evidence 1

According to starwars.wikia.com, "Jedi persuasion is a mind trick of the Force that allows a jedi to influence the thoughts of others."

When using the mind trick, the jedi generally use a suggestive tone of voice and a distinctive gesture, waving their hand in front of the target's face.

This power of suggestion is also known to project illusions which make the target think they are seeing things that aren't actually there.

Fact/Example/Evidence 2

Upon seeing Harry Potter about to attack him, Luke could simply influence Harry's surface thoughts with his" Jedi Mind Trick"as a distraction.

While battling, Luke can get into Harry's mind, making it difficult for the wizard to cast a spell. A wizard needs to concentrate in order for spells to work, so Luke could easily take away one of Harry's greater strengths, magic, in this fight.

According to JKRowling.com/Harry_Potter, it states, "Harry also struggles with a guilt complex; he often blames himself for things out of his control." This means Luke could mentally harass Harry with images of people he has disappointed in his life. While the wizard is distracted, Luke can attack.
